

MaxaMom: Fighting the zombie apocalypse

Mom•bie:

/'mämbē/ Adjective Slow moving, rote, patterned behaviors in parenting

Every parent is a hero. You are a hero: believe it.

We know it too and organize events for supermoms who want to do two things: train and hone daily super-powers and empower themselves and their children. Our kids come with us on all adventures for many reasons:

- a. we illustrate parenting heroism in our events.
- b. a family that plays together, stays...fabulous.
- c. among other things, children are an advantageous tool in life, boosting endurance both mentally, physically, and emotionally.

We host family-fun races beginning Spring 2013 and hold empowering events throughout the winter to help train and teach.

“Like” us on Facebook.com/Maxamom to stay connected and learn more! Our non-traditional (and traditional) events calendar and resources are at maxamom.org, keeping families boisterous, not bored.

Don't forget to visit our super-supporter:

From this point forward anyone calling the Box Office at Stages Theater Company who uses the secret code-word “MaxaMom” will receive one free child's ticket with the purchase of a full price adult/senior ticket. 952-979-1111, option 4. Box Office hours are noon-6pm Tues-Sat and one hour prior to every performance. There will be a max of 2 per household, per order, and per production. www.stagestheatre.org.

